HAGENBECK'S RENT WINTER QUARTERS

Animal Show Will Have Jai-Alai Building Until Next May and Then Begin Tour of the Country.

The Carl Hagenbeck Trained-Animal Show, on the Pike, at the World's Fair, will be removed on December 1 to the Jai-Alai building, at De Ballivier avenue and Kingsbury-boulevard, which it will occupy until May 1 as winter quarters. Exhibitions similar to those at the Fair will be tions similar to those at the Fair will be given.

Final arrangements for a lease of the building probably will be closed to-day with Charles T. Ledden, a member of the Cuban Jai-Alai Company. Contracts will then be let for heating the structure and equipping it for caring for the large collection of wild animals. The main auditorium of the building has a secting capacity of 7,000, and will require but little alteration for the purpose intended.

Contracts are now being made for all necessary equipment for taking the entire Hagenbeck show on tour of the country next summer. The present method of giving continuous pesformances will be rearranged and elaborated to meet the requirements on the road. Many of the animals in the present collection have been sold to dreuses and zoological gardens and will be replaced during the winter from Carl Hagenbeck's headquarters in Hamburg, Germany.

An agreement has been made with the

and will be replaced during the winter from Carl Hagenbeck's hendquarters in Hamburg, Germany.

An agreement has been made with the three big circuses of the country, it is understood, whereby routings for the tour will be made in harmony and to the best interests of all concerned. The fact that James C. Bailey, head of one of "the biggest on earth." was a recent visitor to the Fair and spent same time inspecting the Hagenbeck properties gives weight to a report that the combination controlling the big shows may have secured an interest in the proposition.

The Hagenbeck show is owned by Carl Hagenbeck of Hamburg, Germany: John A. Haylin and C. Lee Williams of Cincinnati and Frank R. Tate of St. Louis, Carl Hagenbeck was here early in the season, remaining a short time. His interests are looked after by his American representative Lorens Hagenbeck.

BOODLER'S WIFE GETS A DIVORCE

Judge Blevins Grants Decree Against Edmund Bersch Who Is in Prison.

TWENTY-TWO CASES HEARD.

Mrs. Florence V. Moss Freed From Husband Who Tried to Hypnotize Her-New Suits Filed.

Circuit Judge Bievins yesterday granted divorce to Mrs. Ida Bersch from Ed mund Bersch, who is serving a term to the Penttentiary for boodling. Her maiden name, Thompson, was restored. The case was tried last Thursday, but was laid over until yesterday to allow time to procure a copy of the record of Bersch's conviction. Max F. Ruler, Mrs. Bersch's attorney, presented the paper yesterday to Judge Blevins, who then ordered a decree to be entered. Mrs. Bersch charged her husband, in addition to his conviction, with failing to support her and with treating her improperly.

Florence V. Moss, who obtained a diverce yesterday in Judge Blevins's court, alleged that her husband, Theodore B. Moss quarreled with her because she would not allow him to hypnotize her and because she would not believe in his theories of hypnotism. He professed to heal the sick with a hypnotic influence, she stated.

She was 17 and he about 55 years old when they were married. November 25, 1899, she said. He left her June 24, 1903, she alleged.

Judge Blevins also granted divorces yes terday to Edna C. Merritt from Robert A. Merritt, with restoration of maiden name, McNicholls; Nancy B. Wilcox from Samuel B. Wilcox; Lewis A. Case from Clara F. Case; Julia Blankenmeister from Ed-F. Case; Julia Blankenmeister from Edgar G. Blankenmeister, with restoration of maiden name, Thornhill, and &500 allmony; Bertha Airschberg from Richard Hirschberg, with custody of two children and restoration of former name. Meler; Hairy E. Robbins from Kate G. Robbins; Mabel L. Edwards from Maroon Edwards; Annie Baker from William Baker, with restoration of maiden name, Stock; Mamie A. Riley from Isaac S. Riley; Minnie Guellering from Nicholas Guellering, with restoration of maiden name, Seibert; Laura Meyer from Edward Meyer; Mary E. Dinnigan from Thomas F. Dinnigan; Mary Milberg from Frank Milberg, with custody of child, and Samuel Levey from Pearl Levey.

Judge Ryan granted divorces yesterday to Ella Louise Meiser from Franklin Melser, with restoration of maiden name, Brooks, to Delia M. Carlson from Severin B. Carlson and to George F. Bartlett from Carrie E. Bartlett.

NEW SUITS FILED. William Geusz filed suit for divorce in the Circuit Court yesterday against Annie E. Geusz, alleging that she advised him to take poison or commit suicide by some other means. They were married at Erie, Pa., November 23, 1874, and lived together until March, 1898, when he was compelled to leave her on account of her cruel treatment of him, he alleges. He returned to live with her last March on her promise to mend her ways, but she quarreled and fought with him, he alleges.

Mary Rutherford sued Edward B. Rutherford for divorce yesterday, alleging that he was addicted to the use of morphine and that he falled to support her and deserted her.

Other divorce suits filed yesterday were; Elizabeth McClelland against Stephen 8. McClelland, alleged failure to provide; Grace Hulbert against James 8. Hulbert, alleged desertion and failure to support; E. Geusz, alleging that she advised him

Grace Hulbert against James S. Hulbert, alleged desertion and failure to support; Edward H. Ellingsworth against Mary Ellingsworth, alleged desertion; F. Hemminghoefer against Bertha Hemminghoefer, alleged desertion; Lulu Harned against Ernest M. Harned, alleged drukenness, and Conrad P. Rieder against Myrta A. Rieder, alleged desertion.

BARRINGTON'S JAIL TERM INDEFINITE

Appeal Fees Remain Unpaid, and the Case Has Not Come Before the Supreme Court.

By failing to pay the filing fee of his appeal, F. Seymour Barrington, convicted of the murder of James P. McCann, may linger indefinitely in the Clayton jall without his case ever being heard by the Su-

The transcript of the evidence of the lower court in Barrington's case was com-pleted three months ago and mailed to the clerk of the Supreme Court. The fil-ing fee of $10 was not paid, however, and, consequently, it was not "officially filed." Until it is the Supreme Court will not preme Court.

Until it is the Supreme Court will not consider the appeal.

Attorney J. C. Davis, who assisted in the prosecution of the case, was in Clayton yesterday complaining of the failure to make the payment. He is disposed to believe that it is a scheme for further delay. Davis says there are hundreds of similar cases where convicted defendants who are on bond defeat the purpose of the law by failing to pay the filing fee, resulting in the Supreme Court never passing on their cases, and their remaining at liberty indefinitely.

In Barrington's case, however, it is different, as he is held without bail.

but it is also claimed that even without the Fair there is no reason to believe that a much more material abatement of commercial energy would have occurred than has.

At the same time and because of the conditions are stated, marked business or manufacturing development is not expected within the next few months. Factories and business houses have been doing well for sometime without reducing their force of employes or adding to their planta. The dull season is here, and the general belief is expressed that these enterprises will continue the even tenor of their existence at least until next January, a fact which has delayed plans for additions to plants to a most material degree is the cost of skilled labor and building material. This was superinduced by the Fair, which had a given task to complete in a given time at any cost, with the obvious result of materially increasing the cost of labor and material.

With the close of the Fair the energy of St. Louis business men, it is stated, will be concentrated upon adding to the city's large commercial properties.

It is estimated that in St. Louis proper $200,000,000 is invested in manufactures, the product of which amounts to more than $20,000,000 each year, and of which at least $40,000,000 each year, and of which at least $40,000,000 gets back into local channels, through the thousands of employes.

While the large majority of the local manufacturies have continued without retrenchment in the last year, and most of them have made marked successes, but a small percentage contempiate an addition either to their plants or business before the next year, being content to rest on their cars until more auspicious period for reaching out arrives.

In the iron mills in East St. Louis and St. Louis there is every indication of a thriving business. Most of the mills have orders for many months and the length of their pay rolls show no tendency to shrink. It is understood that one of the mills in East St. Louis which was closed during a strike will be reopened.

What is true of the mills is true of the car shops, which have heavy orders and are working overtime to fill them.

In other industries such as the boot and aboe, electrical supplies and others the representatives report that the steady stream of orders has kept them going without intermission this year, but that the need of employing more men or aciding to their plant is not imperative as yet.
